INSURGENTS TO GET PATRONAGE

President Admits His Policy won't Go, so He Seeks to Line Up with the Progressives

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 15.—A new policy looking to the healing of the breach between the progressive and the regular branches of the republican party was announced at Beverly today by the making public of a letter authorized by President Taft to a prominent Iowa politician. It announces the determination of the executive to restore patronage to the insurgent senators and representatives.

The letter is signed by Charles D. Norton, secretary to the president but has been carefully O. K'd by the executive. It announces that the president has determined hereafter not to draw any distinction between the republican senators and representatives as long as they subscribe to the platform of the party. It provides for the restoration of the share of the insurgents in federal patronage. In brief President Taft declares himself a friend of the progressives.

Taft politicians here declare that the new attitude of the administration is not adopted as a concession to the insurgent sentiment. They say it is a recognition of their republican and an attempt by the president as titular leader of the party to turn "progressive" activity into channels where the most good can be accomplished.

Is Taft "Reneging?" Heretofore, friends of the president declare his withholding of patronage from the insurgents has been construed as indicating his alignment with the "regulars." This, they declare, has never been true, and it is to a belated recognition of the fact that in certain states the president's name has without his consent been used against insurgents that the pronouncement today is due. It was not announced to whom the communication was sent, but those here believe it was to one of the "stand-pat" Iowa congressmen. In full the letter is as follows:

Waited for Primaries "Your letters of the ninth are at hand and I have delayed replying until after the primary elections. The president directs me to express to you and your friends his deep appreciation of the work which you have done and the powerful assistance which you have extended to the administration from the beginning—an assistance that has contributed much to the legislative and other success which have been secured."

"The president recognizes that your efforts have been wholly disinterested, that you have fought stoutly and generously for what you believe to be his interests and welfare and success of the party. While republican legislation pending in congress was opposed by certain of the members of the party, it was not opposed by the president."

PERSECUTED BY FEDERAL SLEUTHS

Man Arrested for Theft of $173,000 Offers to Tell who the Real Thief Is

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—George W. Fitzgerald, arrested on the charge of stealing $173,000 from the United States treasury, was today released on $50,000 bonds, furnished by his friends and business associates. An effort was made by his attorney, Edward R. Lutzinger, to have Judge Landis reduce the amount of the bond but the court refused.

"Fifty thousand dollars is a large bond," declared Judge Landis, "but in view of the fact that this case is one in which there may be a fine imposed of $173,000 and also a ten year prison sentence, I do not think it is excessive."

James Ralph, his former bondsman, John Gordon, and W. H. Joyce, president of the Hammond Car Repair company, in which Fitzgerald held stock, signed his bond.

Fitzgerald was brought into court at the request of Judge Landis when his attorney asked for a reduction of the bond.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Geo. W. Fitzgerald, formerly assistant teller of the United States treasury, arrested on the charge of stealing $173,000 from the treasury in 1907, declared today that he had been persecuted by the government secret service men from the hour that he had reported the loss of the money from his cage. He is very bitter because of the constant surveillance, which he claims has violated even the most sacred secrets of his home life.

Fitzgerald is still in jail, having been unable to secure the $50,000 bond required by Judge Landis. He declared that he had a strong suspicion as to who took the money and is willing to tell Captain Porter of the secret service or the trial judge, but no one else.

"I can only repeat that I did not take the money," declared Fitzgerald in his cell. "I have a strong suspicion as to where the money went but I have never been able to get positive proof. It was taken by a person whose name never has been mentioned in connection with the case. I am willing to tell the proper persons all that I know."

Even Searched Grave "Those secret service fellows have persecuted me and my wife from the hour the money was missed. They have violated all decency in their constant surveillance. Every move that I have made in my home or outside of it has been watched. They even attended the funeral of Mrs. Mary Casey, my sister-in-law, one of them disguised as a grave digger and I am positive that they later dug up the coffin and searched the shroud for the missing money."

"Everywhere I went I saw a secret service man in one disguise or another. Sometimes they posed as laboring men, sometimes as negroes and sometimes as women. They have been with me constantly. They appeared at my home and questioned my wife; stopped my three little children on the street and asked them about their father's money. Oh, it has been terrible and has nearly driven my wife insane."

Says He Is Innocent "I am an innocent man," retorted Fitzgerald, "and I am anxious now to go to trial and have my innocence to go to trial shrd etain unce roved so that I can hold my head up in society and not be pointed out as a man against whom there rests grave suspicions."

"I have not much money, but what little I have I have made since I lost my position at the treasury. I have never had any $1,000 bills as has been claimed nor did I give the Gordon Brothers $10,000 to take to Scotland and exchange for smaller denominations. That is but a part of the lies invented by the secret service men. They have got to make a goat of somebody and they are trying it on me."

"The first money I made was $800. I got that through selling the house in which I lived."

Made Money Honestly "Then I invested in real estate and made a little more through speculation. I cleaned up $3,200 in an egg deal, I bought eggs at 15 cents a dozen and sold them the following spring at 19 and 19 1/2 cents."

"I have invested my earnings in several enterprises. I owned 17 shares in the Illinois Bolt and Nut company and had stock in the Hammond Car Repair company."

Fitzgerald declares that perhaps his arrest was stimulated by Former Treasurer Boldenwick, because of the $50,000 suit for damages he has brought against him for his arrest two years ago on a state warrant.

"I shall be acquitted of this charge although I know that every trick will

PLOW WORKS BUYS THE OLD TANNERY

Property on Second and Badger Streets Is Purchased for a Foundry Site

BUILDING TO BE BLOCK LONG

Enlargement of Plant will Result in Employment of Many Additional Hands

A deal has just been closed whereby the La Crosse Plow company purchases the old tannery on the corner of Second and Badger streets, from the Davis, Medary & Platz company, the consideration being $13,500. The property has a 450 foot frontage and will be the site of a mammoth foundry to be used by the plow company.

By the purchase of this property the plow company proposes to enlarge its capacity, having been unable to keep up with its orders on account of inadequate foundry facilities. "We have closed the deal for the old tannery property," said A. Hirschheimer, president of the company today, "for the purpose of increasing our drill business. The present foundry must be operated day and night for six months in the year to keep pace with our business, and when the new plant is built it will relieve this condition. We purchased the tannery building and the property, but not the machinery. Under the conditions of the transfer we give the Davis, Medary & Platz company four months in which to sell and dispose of the machinery in the building."

"We do not expect to do anything in the matter until next spring, when the present building will be torn down and a new foundry built, to cover the entire block. This will give employment to many more hands and will enable the company to better handle its business. It had been our intention to extend our business to the south, but we were able to obtain this property and will make this the site of our main foundry."

The old Valuy Garment company building on North Third street, which was recently purchased by the company, is now being fitted up and will be ready so at least a portion of it may be opened for operation next Monday. In this plant we expect to build all of our harrows."

ILLINOIS VOTING PRIMARY TODAY

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Lines were so closely drawn between the opposing factions in the Illinois state wide primaries today that before noon extra police were placed on duty at Chicago to prevent riots that were developing in various ways. Four arrests were made on charges of vote buying and repeating.

The vote cast was comparatively light. In the ninth congressional district, the early voting indicated that stand pat Congressman Boutell was running behind his insurgent opponent Frederick Gansberger and it is predicted the latter will be nominated.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—With insurgency as the issue in the congressional contest and "jack potting" and other alleged irregularities of the legislature as the chief state questions the Illinois voters were called upon today to nominate congressmen, legislators and minor officials at the state wide primaries.

Although weather conditions were ideal, early indications were that the vote would not be heavy. In Chicago, it was estimated that neither the republicans or democrats would show more than half of their full voting strength.

Congressman Boutell, of the ninth district, is attracting the most attention in the congressional fight, being opposed by Arthur West and Frederick H. Gansberger, both insurgents. Congressman James R. Mann and Edmund Foss are also opposed by two progressive candidates. Foss is experiencing the time of his life, in his efforts to win over Frederick C. De Lang and George Englehard but the general belief is that Mann is reasonably sure of pulling through. Speaker Cannon will win renomination easily.

In the down state districts the contests are hot but are based more on Deenee and Lorimer issues than upon insurgency. Every candidate from the Lorimer wing of the party has at least two opponents. The democrats have a hot fight on in the fourth district, four candidates being after the seat of Congressman McDermott. Martin B. Madden in the first district also has opposition.

Lee O'Neill Browne, recently acquitted of attempting to bribe Representative White of O'Fallon, is a candidate for re-nomination to the state legislature.

WESTERN UNION DIVIDEND NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The Western Union Telegraph company has declared its regular quarterly dividend of 1/2 of 1 per cent.

TAWNEY'S CROWD FROM WASECA

Two Voters and the Postmaster Occupy "Special Train" to Rochester Tuesday Night

A letter from a well known traveling man of this city who was in Waseca, Minn., Tuesday evening when a special train was run from that city to Rochester, to carry the crowd to hear Congressman James A. Tawney defend himself against the charges of the progressives, writes friends here as follows:

"The 'Tawney special' left here for Rochester Tuesday night, to carry crowds to Tawney's meeting, carried three passengers; two republicans and one democrat, and one of them was the postmaster here."

Progressives acquainted with the situation in Tawney's district say this is typical of the strength being shown by the Cannon-congressman in the campaign preceding the primaries.

It was the young aviator's first real flight although he has been practicing for some time. The flight was made in a Curtiss biplane and Ward has been a student under the famous flier for some time.

TEDDY EVEN BEGINS FRAMING PLATFORM

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 15.—So confident is Col. Theodore Roosevelt that he and his associates will control the republican state convention which meets at Saratoga on Sept. 27th that he today began framing the platform which he expects to have adopted. This is to be a real progressive document and it will deal with nearly all of the state problems from the Roosevelt standpoint.

COOK AT ETAH TO RECOVER RECORDS

Explorer Says He will Yet Prove to World He Discovered Pole; Eskimos Say He Did

BRADLEY WILL BACK HIM

Dr. Cook Expects to Prove His Claims and Nose Peary Out of His False Honors

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the discredited Arctic explorer, is now enroute to Etah, on the northwest coast of Greenland to recover records which he alleges he left there on his return from the north pole, according to the Copenhagen correspondent of the Central News.

Cook is aboard the yacht "Beauty" belonging to John R. Bradley, who backed Cook in his last polar hunt. News of Cook was brought to Copenhagen by a ship that sighted the "Beauty" and learned of the doctor's mission from the explorer himself.

Cook is after records which he says will yet prove his claim to being the discoverer of the north pole, a claim that first brought him the plaudits of the world and then the world's derision.

The vessel bringing the news of Cook also brought letters from officials of Greenland, stating that all the Eskimos who were associated with Cook on his last polar trip are convinced that he reached the pole.

Will Prove Claims

The Danish vessel Hans Egede, on which Cook returned to Copenhagen from his Arctic travels, a little more than a year ago, brought the news of Cook to Copenhagen. The Hans Egede encountered the Beauty off Godhavn, a Danish island off the southern coast of Greenland.

It was learned that Cook was aboard the Beauty although he was not seen by the captain of the Hans Egede. A man professing to be John R. Bradley carried on the conversation with the officers of the Hans Egede.

The last authentic word regarding the whereabouts of Dr. Cook was last April when he was reported in Rio Janeiro after having been seen by several Americans in Chile, the month before. He was then planning, he said, to sail for New York. Cook has always contended that if the records he says he left at Etah could have been presented to the committee of the diversity of Copenhagen it would never have returned an adverse report on his polar data.

In the Etah cache, according to Cook, are the instruments that he used in making his observations, the absence of which was considered fatal to his proof of his discovery claim.

As soon as the report of the Copenhagen committee was published Cook announced that he would spend every cent he possessed, if necessary, to send an expedition to Etah to recover his records.

AEROPLANE FALLS LIKE ROCKET STICK

GARDEN CITY, L. I., Sept. 15.—Harry S. Harkness of Cleveland had a narrow escape from death when his Antoinette aeroplane collapsed today. His chassis was entirely demolished, his radiator cracked, but he was smiling and unhurt when the crowd rushed on the field expecting to find him badly hurt.

Harkness went up from in front of the stand and had made two perfect rounds of the course when he was seen to stop his engine and head his machine earthward, apparently intending to attempt a "Hamilton dive." His machine balked and plunged downward like the stick of a rocket.

After looking the debris over, Harkness said: "Looks like a smash-up, don't it?"

He said he has two additional machines enroute from France, which are due in a few days, and that he will resume flying when they get here.

NO DEFENSE FOR CRIPPEN NECESSARY

LONDON, Sept. 15.—"So far the prosecution has failed utterly to make out a case against Dr. H. H. Crippen. Right now I can't see on what the prosecution is depending even to have Crippen bound over to the grand jury."

This statement was made to the United Press today by Solicitor Arthur Newton, who is conducting the defense of the alleged wife murderer, and his typist, Miss Ethel Clare Leneve. Newton said he had not settled upon a defense for the reason that the prosecution has as yet brought out nothing that he will have to defend.

"Until the prosecution completes its case I can't say what the defense will be. There won't be any unless the state forces a much stronger chain of evidence than is now apparent," he said.

WALTER PAWLING HAS ODD HISTORY

Claims Contract Between His Mother and Father Made Him Her Sole Heir

MOTHER DESERTED HIM

Says His Real Name Is Walter McIntosh and that He was Forsaken when Quite Young

Claiming that he was deserted by his mother when but a few years of age and later adopted by her and her second husband, with the consent of his father, Walter Pawling has petitioned through his attorney, Fred H. Hartwell, that the last will and testament of his mother, Mrs. Margaret Pawling, which left most of her property to churches and charitable institutions, be set aside and that he be declared her sole heir, according to a contract between his mother, Mrs. Pawling, and his father, John McIntosh, made after the second marriage of his mother.

Pawling claims that he did not know that he was not the son of John Pawling until after his mother's death when his father, John McIntosh, acquainted him with the facts of the case.

His father claims, and substantial legal proofs of his claim have been found by Attorney Fred H. Hartwell, that Mrs. Pawling made a contract with McIntosh for the adoption of the son, the contract specifying that the son was to be given all her property at the time of her death. It is on this contract that the fight for recognition as her sole heir is being made.

The story of the life of Walter Pawling, as stated in his petition reads like a book and includes interesting history of the life of Mrs. Pawling, who was for years janitress at the La Crosse public library, which has never before been made public.

According to Walter Pawling he was born in St. Croix Falls, Polk county, Wis., March 16, 1886, and was the son of John and Alice McIntosh.

When but a few years of age Pawling claims his mother deserted him and later married John Pawling.

The second marriage of his mother was childless, he claims, and that an agreement was entered into between herself and her first husband for his adoption.

Copies of this agreement have been secured by Attorney Fred H. Hartwell as have also copies of the order of the court of Polk county authorizing the adoption of Walter Pawling, whose real name was Walter McIntosh, by Mr. and Mrs. John Pawling.

Walter Pawling claims the understanding between his father, John McIntosh, and his mother, was that he was to be treated as the son of the Pawlings and to receive all benefits of such relation as well as being made heir to whatever estate she might possess at the time of her death.

Pawling, after reaching his majority, was married and established a home of his own. He swears that since March, 1890, the date of his adoption, he did not know that he was not the son of John Pawling and did not learn of the fact until a letter arrived from his father, John McIntosh.

BOTH ESCH AND BALDWIN TALK

Brief Public Statements Issued Regarding Congressional Candidacy of the Latter

CREATES FUSSLED SITUATION

General Opinion Is that as a Republican the Primary was Baldwin's Opportunity

"I meant it when I said I was going to smoke Mr. Esch out. I am and always have been a progressive. The other day, for the first time since the La Follette fight started, Mr. Esch said he was a progressive. I base my statement that he is not upon his official record. It has been shown that a majority of his constituents believe in progressive policies, and I believe they want a progressive representative. I have entered the contest after mature deliberation, and I shall attempt to present the facts to the public. The voters will have a chance to decide all the questions raised by my candidacy."—Statement by Judge Cameron L. Baldwin.

"I am not prepared just now to make a statement. At a proper time I will prepare one. My stand for progressive legislation can be easily demonstrated. As to the amendment of the house rules, the tariff commission and railway legislation, I feel that I can justly claim that I am a pioneer. My hearty support of Senator La Follette was publicly announced prior to the primaries."—Statement by Congressman John J. Esch.

A condition bordering upon hysteria was created by the exclusive publication in The Tribune last night of Judge Cameron Baldwin's announcement that he would contest with Honorable John J. Esch the election to congress from this district. There were elements of comedy as well as of tragedy in the situation, and things are fairly up in the air today.

At the head of this column are statements made respectively by Judge Baldwin and Congressman Esch, which speak for themselves. Both claim to be progressives. Mr. Esch makes no reference to Judge Baldwin in any way, but the latter challenges Mr. Esch's statement as to his political status. While there is much diversity of opinion in regard to the matter, a few things clearly outlined themselves today. They are as follows:

Primary the Place Progressive leaders are quite unanimous in the opinion that, as a republican, Judge Baldwin should have made his fight against Mr. Esch in the primaries of that party. Having failed to do so, and having elected to run as an independent, he has no right to ask progressive republicans to bolt the party ticket and support him.

Angered by Congressman Esch's recent endorsement of Senator La Follette and the progressive movement, stalwarts will quite generally vote for Judge Baldwin. Many of them have given public expression to this purpose, their action being inspired, not by a preference for Judge Baldwin, but by a desire to "get even" with Mr. Esch.

Politicians Bothered

Progressive leaders are noncommittal in relation to the issue that has been thus suddenly thrust upon them. They have assumed the wary attitude that was shown in the state primary campaign when Wm. Mitchell Lewis precipitated the county option issue. None seems prepared to talk for publication, all apparently preferring to get used to the new situation before talking about it. While there is a diversity of opinion, however, it may be said that a number of them have privately expressed confidence in Mr. Esch's protestation that he is a progressive. It is probably that the situation will not be crystallized until after the appearance of the public statement which Mr. Esch has promised to make.

Judge Baldwin Explains

"You are a republican, why did you not contest the nomination of

HEALTH OFFICIAL DENIES CHARGES

Dr. Rucker Resigns when Miss "Katy" Gets Busy, but will Deny Relations with the Servant

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 15.—With the warrant for his arrest hanging over him, Milwaukee's health commissioner, Dr. Wm. Colby Rucker, past assistant surgeon of the United States marine hospital corps appeared in the civil court here to answer to charges sworn by Catherine Hasdorf, a domestic, who claims he is the father of her unborn child, and seeks to protect it with his name. Rucker proclaimed his innocence and Judge Gregory continued the case until December 14. During the three months intervening the woman's allegations will be thoroughly investigated.

A. B. Cargill was placed temporarily by Mayor Emil Seidel in charge of the Milwaukee health department today to succeed Rucker, who resigned last night.

A National Figure

The accused health commissioner is well known in government public health service, having been in United States public health and marine hospitals for a number of years. He was assigned to New Orleans during the recent yellow fever epidemics and later to San Francisco when Bubonic plague threatened that city. Dr. Rucker was granted a year's leave of absence from the government service soon after Mayor Seidel took office here and was appointed to the position which he was forced to resign.

Accusing Girl Laughs

When a reported called for a photograph of Miss Heisdorf, Miss Heisdorf left some clothes which she had been ironing to see her visitor. She was garbed in a blue wrapper and a blue gingham apron. Tall, with disheveled hair and wild, black eyes, she stood in the center of a room and burst into peal after peal of laughter.

"You want my picture. Ha, ha, that is funny. If I give it to you it will show my face, yes? Well, well, ha, ha!"

Then she went up and got the picture.

"I don't know if you can use the picture," she said laughing. "I was very warm around the neck when it was taken. Do you think they can use a picture that is warm around the neck? Well, my dear is going to settle with me today. That's what he says."

Then she chewed her fingers and chuckled.

Answered An "Ad."

The girl's present mistress says the girl has been in her employ but a few days, having answered an advertisement. Several days ago she told her mistress, it is said, that her "beau" had asked her to give up her religion and then he would marry her. Miss Heisdorf is a Catholic. Once she is declared to have said that Dr. Rucker, the health commissioner, whom she had met at a party, was the man who had promised to marry her. She told her mistress that he had purchased a $45 suit for her, which he said was to be her traveling suit. Doubting the girl's veracity, her employer picked up a paper in which Dr. Rucker's photograph was printed, and holding her hand over the name asked the girl if she knew the man.

"Why that is my beau," said the girl. "That is the man I have told you about." At one time she asked her mistress if she had ever eaten "club sandwiches."

"He buys me such nice things to eat," she is reported to have said. "I have never had such good things to eat in my life before, until I met him. I don't know what I'd ever do if I couldn't have those good things now."

Girl's Uncle Talks

Peter Heisdorf, 729 Van Buren street, a relative, said the woman had been in the Wauwatosa asylum but that he did not think she was insane. "Sometime ago she told me Dr. Rucker was going to marry her and that he was in earnest," he said. "My wife told her that she must be dreaming, but she said 'No.' I don't know what to think of the case."

Alienists Report

Miss Heisdorf was committed Oct. 20, 1909, to the county insane asylum for thirty days by Judge Paul D. Carpenter, for examination into her mental condition.

On Dec. 10, however, her dismissal from the institution was ordered by the county court on the report of Drs. William E. Wegge and Harry E. Bradley, county alienists.

In her preliminary examination in county court Nov. 18, Miss Heisdorf complained of police persecution. They arrested, she said, a man named Marsh "just because he was with her."

The report of the alienists was as follows:

"This woman is incoherent at times, very talkative, sleeps very poorly, and is so erratic that she bothers all of her friends and neighbors by calling upon them and telephoning them at night; she tells lies that have all the appearance of being delusions, and she has ideas of persecution. She makes a great deal of trouble for anybody who has had any business dealings with her, and is unbalanced in many ways. Although she has no pronounced delusions or hallucinations she should be confined for study and treatment."

In her examination, Miss Heisdorf said that a policeman named

U. S. Should Defend Work Upon which Thousands Are Being Spent, Says Senator Burton

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 15.—Formidable opinions were brought forward today in direct contradiction to the statement made by Representative J. Warren Keifer (R., O.) upon his arrival here from the Brussels conference, that the United States has no right to fortify the Panama canal.

"The right of the United States to fortify the canal undoubtedly exists," declared Senator Burton (R., O.), who is one of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. Burton's statement is given additional weight by the fact that he personally is not an advocate of fortification.

When shown Keifer's statement fortification advocates produced the following extract from the message on the subject sent to congress by President Taft:

"It is the right and duty of the United States to defend the work upon which it is expending such enormous sums. An adequate defense requires suitable fortifications near the terminals."

In order to present the British viewpoint on the question the following memorandum was written by Lord Lansdowne, when the treaty was under negotiation was quoted:

"In my despatch I pointed out the dangerous ambiguity of an instrument of which one clause permitted the adoption of defensive measures while another prohibited the erection of fortifications. As to this, I understand by the omission of all reference to the matter of defense the United States government desires the power of taking measures to protect the canal, at any time the United States may be at war, from destruction or damage at the hands of an enemy or enemies.

"On the other hand, I conclude that with the above exception, there is no intention to derogate from the principles of neutrality laid down by the rules. As to the first of these propositions I am not prepared to deny that contingencies may arise where not only from a national standpoint of view but from also the commercial interest of the world it might be of supreme importance to the United States that they should be free to adopt measures for defense of the canal at a moment when they are themselves engaged in hostilities."

It was with this understanding that Great Britain agreed to omit the clause contained in the original draft of the treaty prohibiting fortifications.

The treaty as now in effect has no reference to fortifications. The opinion of President Taft is considered of the highest value because of his reputation as a lawyer and particularly because he was secretary of war when the canal zone passed into the hands of the United States.

MINE EXPLOSION INJURES MANY

LINTON, Ind., Sept. 15.—The explosion of a pocket of gas in the Dugger mine, about five miles from here, resulted in the killing of Andrew Baxter, the fatal injury of Bert Reese, and the painful burning of ten others. Reese suffered a fractured skull and is not expected to live. The injured were removed to the hospital at Linton.

The entry employs about 18 men, but only about a dozen were in the entry at the time of the explosion. They were hurled to the ground and covered with debris. Baxter and Reese received the full force of the explosion, believed to have come from the miner's lamp worn by Baxter. The mine is in good condition and the men returned to work.

ROB COUNTESS OF PRICELESS JEWELS

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 15.—The Countess of Antrim was robbed of jewels valued at several thousands of dollars while at the Royal Alexandra hotel last night, according to information given to the police today. The jewels are held priceless by the countess from the fact that a part of them are family heirlooms.

This robbery is the climax of a series which have been perpetrated in hotels and trains of the Canadian Pacific railroad and which have engaged the attention of the railroad police for months.

WOMEN RULED THE PRE-HISTORIC WORLD

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Ministers of Chicago are expected to be soon busy penning a reply to Professor W. E. Clark of the University of Chicago, who in an address here Tuesday declared that women were the first rulers of the world and said that he believed thousands would have been vastly different had Jehovah been a woman.

Professor Clark said that long before the advent of Christianity, women reigned and man was merely an incident. At that time the world was more sympathetic but man gradually shattered the rule of woman through the use of his greater animal powers and after supplanting her as a ruler enslaved her.

"I am relating these facts not for the purpose of censuring man," Professor Clark said, "but to show the result on humanity of a religion that exalts one sex above another."

CAN INDICT MORE IN BEEF TRUST CASE

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Whether there shall be further indictments in the beef case was a matter of discussion between Attorney General Wickersham and Oliver Pagan, the government's indictment expert today. It is understood that at least two more indictments are to follow but the defendants will be New York men. Wickersham stopped in Chicago enroute from Alaska and the coast to Washington.

It is declared there is plenty of evidence on which to base indictments against officials from the New York Dressed Beef association and that the matter under discussion was merely one of jurisdiction. Whether to bring the indictments in this district or to carry the evidence to New York and place it before a grand jury is the matter now under consideration. Counsel for the accused under indictment met today and commenced laying plans for the defense of their clients.

SENTENCE BRIBER IN SUGAR FRAUDS

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Two years imprisonment in the Atlanta prison and a fine of $5,000 was the penalty imposed by Federal Judge Martin here on Ernest W. Gerbracht, former superintendent of the Williamsburg refinery of the sugar trust who was recently convicted of conspiracy to defraud the government. A stay was granted pending appeal.

In passing sentence Judge Martin referred to the fact that Gerbracht had been superintendent of the Williamsburg refinery and that it had been shown that he had personally paid out money used to bribe the weighers. Gerbracht was given until tomorrow to furnish a new bond of $25,000.

FAMILY CAN KEEP CASH FROM SINGER

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Whether Lina Cavalieri realizes anything on her ante-nuptial agreement with Robert W. Chanler, by which he turned over the whole of his fortune to her depends, in the opinion of counsel for the Chanler family, on whether "Sheriff Bob" is agreeable to the transfer of his fortune.

The noted diva has turned over her legal affairs to the law firm of King & Osborne, but it is the consensus of legal opinion that should the Chanler family fight the case she will hardly get enough out of it to pay lawyer's fees.

What the artist-politician husband intends to do is still unstated. He admits himself "sick of the entire matter" and desirous of complete effacement for the next few months. There is no question, however, that the family will oppose Cavalieri, even if her husband does essay to play a heroic and generous role.

Cavalieri's attorneys will file a copy of the ante-nuptial agreement with the county clerk not later than tomorrow.

STREET RAILWAYS CONTRIBUTED $10,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Corporation contributions to the republican campaign fund during the state campaign of 1900, when Benjamin B. Odell, Jr., was elected governor, were brought to light by the legislative investigating committee. Former State Senator Louis F. Goodsell, who was chairman of the senate railroad committee for a number of years, told of having paid $10,000 to Reuben L. Fox, secretary of the republican state committee. This money was a direct contribution from the Association of Street Railways of the state and was given to Goodsell by G. Tracy Rogers, the legislative agent of the street railways at Albany.

Goodsell explained that Rogers asked him to pay the money to Fox, promising later on to repay him which he did.

"REGULARS" STILL CONTROL THIS STATE

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 15.—Emphatically endorsing the administration of President Taft, who was characterized as "one of the greatest presidents the White house has ever known," the Connecticut republican convention yesterday adopted its platform and placed a complete state ticket in the field. The platform praises the president for the preservation of tariff peace with the whole trading world and for "having by tactful and resolute insistence succeeded in placing the vital part of the reform for which his predecessor pleaded in speeches and messages into the statute law."

GUESTS ESCAPE IN THEIR NIGHTIES

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 15.—Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, yesterday destroyed the C. W. Hegel and Wood buildings at Church and George streets, causing a loss of $250,000. For a time surrounding structures, including the Onco Hotel were threatened and the hotel guests were driven to the street, many of them in their night clothing.

Danderine

GROWS HAIR and we can PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes: "As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length."

Beautiful Hair At Small Cost

HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly diagnosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no earthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions).

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One 25-cent bottle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

FREE To show how quickly Danderine acts, we will send a large sample free by return mail to anyone who sends this free coupon to the KNOWLTON DANDERINE CO., CHICAGO, ILL., with their name and address and 10c. in silver or stamps to pay postage.

TAWNEY IN TERROR

It is probable that "Jim" Taw-
ney is having the time of his life
about now. The erstwhile idle gentleman who viewed the campaign against him with pensive scorn has dropped his apathy and is skidding
about the scrimmage line like a rocket in distress.

That is just the thing for "Jim"
to do; it promises to contribute considerable more to his defeat than did his contemptuous silence. It is embarrassing for a man who has spent years in congress as a "representative" of a people to have to stand upon a single good thing
which, in the face of positive dispute, he claims to have done. Tawney is in "a hole," for sure.

The most pitiable thing about Tawney's campaign is his sudden clamor that he is a "friend of Roosevelt." How he does love Roosevelt! His "love" may be accurately measured by the whole-souled
contempt which Roosevelt entertains
for him.

Tawney began life as a blacksmith. He went to congress, and he has had his hammer out ever since.
His part in Mr. Cannon's anvil chorus at Washington is about finished.

Back to the forge, "Jim" Tawney.

ROOM FOR THE W. B. U.

The promptness with which the Board of Trade undertook to secure adequate quarters for the Toland
business school is most satisfactory.
This school is important to La Crosse. It brings several hundred people and many thousands of dollars to this city annually. It is a first class institution, one La Crosse
can well afford to encourage.

Mr. Toland does not come as a mendicant. He wants a suitable building, and he is prepared to pay for it. He makes a precise business proposal, and he has been in business so long that no question can arise as to the permanency of his proposition.

A committee of the board will be appointed to take up the matter of securing a suitable building for the W. B. U. Perhaps President Doerflinger may have solved the problem in a moment by his suggestion that the governor's guard meet the situation by adding an extra story

to their armory.

THE MEANING OF IT

It is admitted at Beverly, unofficially, that President William Howard Taft does not anticipate his own re-election. This may be interpreted as a concession on the part of the managers of the republican party
that his renomination would mean a sweeping democratic victory in the next presidential election.

Democrats may be inclined to the opinion that the democratic triumph
in Maine spells democratic victory in 1912. Maine has long been known as a "pivot" state, and an examination of history marks the belief that as Maine goes in a presidential
year, so goes the national election,
as something more than a superstition.

Since, yesterday,
"Maine went Hell bent
For Governor Kent."

the prediction may be expected from democratic sources that the next president and congress will be democratic.

A glance over the election returns
to date suggests the error of this conclusion. California, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, New Hampshire and Washington were carried by the progressive republicans. In these states there was a strong insurgent organization which succeeded in controlling the republican primaries or conventions,
and in these states there was no indication of an increase in the democratic vote.

Maine and Arizona were carried by the democrats, but in these two states
there was no insurgent republican organization, and the only means offered to insurgent republicans of giving expression to their views was
in voting the democratic ticket,
which they did with effective results.

Mr. Taft's standpat machine having succeeded in controlling the Ohio
republican convention, the president
may expect to suffer a continuance of the humiliation of seeing his own state in the democratic column, and the triumph of the reactionary machine in New York may bring about similar results in that state.

Analysis of the voting done so far indicates that a rebellious people has fixed upon insurgent republicanism
as the best instrument for resumption of popular control of government, and that people have voted the democratic ticket only in states
where there were no insurgent republican candidates. With the defeat of Senator Hale by a democratic legislature asserted, and with insurgent republican candidates making up the national republican ticket, there is little doubt that Maine will swing back to the republican column in 1912. If he wants to be Col. Roosevelt will probably be the next president of the United States; should Colonel Roosevelt decline the honor, it will doubtless go to Senator Robert M.
La Follette or some other militant republican insurgent.

A MUSTARD SEED WAS SOWN

At the risk of disturbing the gravity of Dr. Wendell A. Anderson, and without permission from the
New York Times and Philadelphia Record, we offer to our readers for analysis the following comment of the Milwaukee Journal:

"The La Crosse Chronicle, Special Interests and Tory, says that it has been beaten and that henceforth it is going to favor such legislation and policies as The Journal favors. That, we fear, would be somewhat inconvenient for our contemporary,
though, we believe, at one time it drew its inspiration from a more distant source. We suggest that it consult that staunch Progressive paper, the La Crosse Tribune, which would enable it to repeat the next morning what was said the night before. However, any help that we can give we stand ready to offer.
Use the scissors freely. Pride of authorship is as nothing compared with the cause."

No man with the inconvenient
memory of The Journal's editor
could have qualified as a witness before the Stephenson investigation committee.

Not to Be Fooled

Proudly young Tomkins displayed
the sights of London to his uncle,
fresh from the verdant country.
They visited St. Paul's and the embankment and the National gallery
and all the places they could get in free; and finally, as an especial
treat, they visited a music hall,
where a trombone solo was in progress when they entered.

With rapt attention the old man
watched the instrumentalist's facial contortions. At the close the audience applauded thunderously; but the old man sat mute.

"Well," said young Tomkins,
"didn't you like it?"
"Verra good, verra good, no doubt," nodded the old man; "but we country folk canna be taken in so easy as all that. I knew all the time he wasn't a swallowin' of it!"

A Rhapsody of Long Ago

The breath of summer was in her eyes
The blush of rose upon cheek and
lips,
Two black freckles upon her nose
That had the cutest tips.
It just stuck up as if to say
Like me, or please look the other way.

And cheeks with the bloom of the rose.
I felt a sigh, and I do not know why,
But—that was years ago!

A Matter of Choice

An old dorky servant, devoted to Gen. Jackson, waited on him in the general's last hours. Right after the general's death a preacher asked Rastus if he thought Jackson would go to heaven.

"I doan know, boss, ef 'e'll go foah
sure, but he can ef he wants to,"
replied the dorky.—Independent.

Fits the Description

The teacher was telling the story of Red Riding Hood. She had described the woods and the wild animals that lived there.

"Suddenly," she said, "Red Riding Hood heard a loud noise. She turned around, and what do you suppose she saw standing there, looking at her and showing all his sharp, white teeth?"

"Teddy Roosevelt!" cried one of the boys.—Judge.

Most Important Thing

Commander Peary, at one of the numerous Washington dinners, following his triumphant return from the pole, got the better of a senator
in a war of wits.

"What is the good of your discovery?" the senator said. "I'll wager
that you didn't find a single important thing at the north pole."

"Oh, yes, I did," said the explora-
tor. "I found one very, very important thing."

"Humph! What was that?" the senator grunted.

"The way back home again," was the reply.—Washington Star.

Out of Harmony

The village trombone player was returning through the fields on a very dark night after an engagement
at an outing some miles away, where the drink had proved too tempting for him. Feeling rather quaky and lonely, he consoled himself with a good blast on his instrument to keep his courage up.

Imagine his surprise when he was answered by what sounded very much like a rival at the other end of the field. He blew again, much harder, and there was a second response—this time almost in his ear.
It was from the farmer's bull, who,
in response to a challenge to a further contest, promptly tossed the challenger into the air.

When he had recovered from the shock the trombone player shouted
defiantly into the darkness:

"Tha' great coward! But ah can tell thee one thing, my lad Tha' may be a verry strong man, but tha's no musician!"—Scraps.

At The Theater

"THE GIRL FROM RECTOR'S"

This play enjoyed a run of over three hundred nights at Weber's Music hall, New York, to the biggest business in the history of that house. "The Girl from Rector's" is from the pen of Paul M. Potter, who who was also responsible for "Tril-
by," "The Queen of the Moulin Rouge" and other far famed successes. Mr. Potter declares, however, that "The Girl from Rector's" is the greatest effort of his career and the enormous business the piece is doing seems to bear him out. The story of the play, briefly, is this:

Louise Sedaine is "The Girl from Rector's," a merry, dancing, dashing little slip of humanity. She is in love with Richard O'Shaughnessy, a young chap of ample wealth, who, at the opening of the play, has plunged into dissipation as a result of the influence of Col. Andrew Tandy, whose headquarters is at the famous Broadway restaurant. Richard has wearied of bachelor life and welcomes the visit of Mrs. Witherspoon
Copley, wife of Gen. Witherspoon Copley of Battle Creek, Mich., and her daughter by her first marriage, Miss Marcia Singleton.

Marcia is engaged to a stupid, elderly cousin of Richard, a college professor, and bring about his own. He drives Col. Andrew Tandy out of his rooms and good luck takes Miss Sedaine off on a supposed visit to her father, a Grand Army veteran, in Buffalo, where she spends a few months each year. Richard hies himself to Battle Creek and arrangements go forward for the marriage
and the scenes shift from the east to the west. The complications begin at the same time. Mrs. Copley's husband, the general, is thought to be in Martinique looking after extensive plantations, but he is to return in time for the wedding. Another guest at the Copley home is Judge Caperton of the American court at Shanghai, who spends ten months of the year abroad, leaving his wife to travel in Europe.

Gen. Copley turns out to be none other than Col. Andrew Tandy, who,
in that disguise, has been making
merry in New York. Mrs. Caperton, one of the leading society women of Battle Creek, and wife of the judge,
is none other than Louise Sedaine,
who has spent her long vacations in the vicinity of Rector's instead of going abroad. It is through her frequent visits to the restaurant that she gains the title, "The Girl from Rector's." The complications that follow keep the audience in a roar
of laughter from the rise of the first curtain to the fall of the last. The cast presenting the piece is regarded as one of the strongest that has been sent out of New York in many years.

Resurrection

President Johnson of the American league was pointing out to a sporting editor the wonderful money-making possibilities of the baseball business.

"Baseball is ingrained in our people," he said. "They give their time and money to baseball, though the heavens fall."

"There's a spice of truth in the story of the boss who said to his office boy:

"Well, Henry, I don't see how you'll get to any of the games this season, as your grandmother died
twice while football was on."

"But," said the boy, "grandfather has married again, much against the wishes of the family."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

CHAPTER II.
Inquiring Friends.

"Distance sometimes endears
friendship, and absence sweeteneth
it."—Howell

Helmar had covered perhaps half
the distance to the house, when
ahead of him he caught sight of a little girl, sitting cross-legged under
the shade of one of the big elms,
head bent low over the butterfly
wreath she was weaving, and at her
side a young woman—from her
dress, evidently the child's nurse or
companion—sitting with her back
against the tree, deep buried in her
book. At the sound of Helmar's
footsteps the child glanced up quickly,
and catching sight of the spangle
advancing manfully with
head in air, and tail wagging in
friendliest of greetings, she scrambled to her feet, and tossing her
half-finished wreath aside, came flying across the lawn to meet him.
Evidently with both it was a case
of love at first sight, for the child
stooped and picked the dog up bodily in her arms, pressing his face o
hers, and calling him by the hundred
pet names which spring so readily
to the lips of any true woman—
whatever her age. "Oh, you dear,"
she cried softly, "you darling; aren't
you a pretty dog!" while the spangle
lay quietly in her arms, only striving
to lick her face with his little red
tongue. Then, as Helmar approached,
she looked up. "Isn't he a beauty!"
she said. "Does he belong to you?"

Helmar stood smiling down at her,
thinking that unconsciously she made
a very pretty picture with the spangle
in her arms.

She was a dainty little fairy, slender
and graceful, dressed in an airy
frooc of white muslin, with a broad
sash of blue ribbon, her straw hat
dangling down her back, her big,
serious dark eyes gazing solemnly
into his. He nodded in answer.

"Yes, he belongs to me," he said,
"but do you suppose you could look
after him while I go in to see your
uncle?"

The little girl nodded in eager
consent. "Oh, yes, indeed," she cried. "I'll take care of him. I'll give him my butterfly wreath. Come
now, you darling, come with me,"
and with the spangle still in her arms
she walked back toward the shelter
of the big elm.

At Helmar's nearer approach, the
child's nurse, too, had risen, laying
aside her book, and as he passed,
naturally enough their glances met
—for an instant only—and then Helmar again strode along upon his way, carrying with him the impression of a charming face, and a most alluring smile.

What was there, he wondered,
about the girl, that was so vaguely disquieting? She was dressed quietly enough in simple black, with a little snuggly-fitting white apron, reaching,
by mere chance, just to the height
of her bosom, and held in place by smart little shoulder-straps, about it all a daintily vague impression of ribbon and lace. Her figure, indeed,
was perfect; deliciously rounded;
and the closely-fitting dress seemed
to bring out, with magnificent emphasis, all the beauty of her form.
Her face, moreover, was more striking still; her pretty blonde hair appeared to curl so naturally as utterly to defy the mode of convention; her big blue eyes drooped modestly as soon as she had become conscious of his gaze, just long enough to show
the heavy fringed eyelashes above,
and then almost as quickly glanced up again; there had been a flash of rose in her cheeks, and a deeper scarlet on the lips that had smiled at him. Perhaps it was in the smile itself—slow, languorous, inviting—that the whole woman had seemed suddenly to be revealed; and scarcely able as yet to define it, Helmar
felt that the girl's seeming simplicity
was the dangerous charm of the highest art, and that he had gazed on the guile of the serpent, and not on the innocence of the dove.

enough for it. It's superior to powders or plasters. I can keep my feet in perfect condition. Believe in my earnest gratitude for TIZ. I am a before for your feet. It is different from anything ever before sold.

exudations which bring on soreness
of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore
and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw

The CARLETON
CASE
By ELLERY H. CLARK
Copyright by Bobbs-Merrill Company.

The town clock was striking nine
as Helmar got off the train at Eversley, walked up the station lane, and turned into the narrow footpath leading straight across the half mile of broad green meadow that lay between the station and The Birches.
Rapidly and steadily his tall figure strode along, from time to time with a half smile on his dark, clean-shaven
face, as he watched the little spangle
tearing on far ahead of him, in a very frenzy of delighted freedom,
racing and circling desperately here
and there in vain pursuit of butterfly and bird.

To the farther edge of the meadow
they came. There Helmar, clearing the low rail fence at a bound, for a moment hesitated as he sought to recall Doctor Morrison's directions,
then turned sharp to the right along
the shady country road; proceeding
at first uncertainly, as on a journey
into unknown country, then more confidently, as one by one he came on the landmarks the doctor had foretold: first the massive wall of stone and concrete that marked the limits of the Carleton boundaries,
then grove after grove of the silver
birches that had gained the place
its name, and finally, almost before he expected it, a break in the high
lilac hedge, a long, winding drive,
green lawns shaded by towering
elms, gardens fragrant with flowers,
and in the background, just pleasantly distant from the road, the huge, rambling, many-chimneyed old house itself—Edward Carleton's home.

CHAPTER II.
Inquiring Friends.

"Distance sometimes endears
friendship, and absence sweeteneth
it."—Howell

Helmar had covered perhaps half
the distance to the house, when
ahead of him he caught sight of a
little girl, sitting cross-legged under
the shade of one of the big elms,
head bent low over the butterfly
wreath she was weaving, and at her
side a young woman—from her
dress, evidently the child's nurse or
companion—sitting with her back
against the tree, deep buried in her
book. At the sound of Helmar's
footsteps the child glanced up quickly,
and catching sight of the spangle
advancing manfully with
head in air, and tail wagging in
friendliest of greetings, she scram-
bled to her feet, and tossing her
half-finished wreath aside, came flying across the lawn to meet him.
Evidently with both it was a case
of love at first sight, for the child
stooped and picked the dog up bod-
ily in her arms, pressing his face o
hers, and calling him by the hundred
pet names which spring so readily
to the lips of any true woman—
whatever her age. "Oh, you dear,"
she cried softly, "you darling; aren't
you a pretty dog!" while the spangle
lay quietly in her arms, only striving
to lick her face with his little red
tongue. Then, as Helmar approached,
she looked up. "Isn't he a beauty!"
she said. "Does he belong to you?"

Helmar stood smiling down at her,
thinking that unconsciously she made
a very pretty picture with the spangle
in her arms.

She was a dainty little fairy, slender
and graceful, dressed in an airy
frooc of white muslin, with a broad
sash of blue ribbon, her straw hat
dangling down her back, her big,
serious dark eyes gazing solemnly
into his. He nodded in answer.

"Yes, he belongs to me," he said,
"but do you suppose you could look
after him while I go in to see your
uncle?"

The little girl nodded in eager
consent. "Oh, yes, indeed," she
cried. "I'll take care of him. I'll
give him my butterfly wreath. Come
now, you darling, come with me,"
and with the spangle still in her arms
she walked back toward the shelter
of the big elm.

At Helmar's nearer approach, the
child's nurse, too, had risen, laying
aside her book, and as he passed,
naturally enough their glances met
—for an instant only—and then

DUNN EXPLAINS COUPON BALLOT

Simplicity of Fraud-proof Device Appeals to the North Side Progressive League

In the explanation given last evening before the North Side Progressive league of the new coupon ballot which is to be used at the next election in La Crosse county, Mr. Moncena Dunn showed how several of the present election frauds will be put out of existence by the change.

The new ballot is composed of a large envelope in which the complete tickets of each party is placed, also a smaller envelope. Each ticket has the names of all the candidates of its party printed on the face and the names of any candidate can be detached, perforated lines separating the names. The names of the candidates for which a man intends to vote are detached and placed in the smaller envelope which is then placed in a pocket of the larger. The remaining coupons are placed in the large envelope which is then sealed and can be used in case of a miscount. After the large envelope is sealed it is to be dropped into the ballot box and both envelopes numbered before counting. Separate coupons will be furnished for independent votes but can be placed with the regular ballot.

Among the frauds which this ballot will eliminate are the identification fraud by which a man's vote can be identified by voting for an independent party for some minor office

How I Took The Hair Off My Face

The Same, Sure Remedy Which Cured Me, Will Be Sent You FREE. It Will Not Burn Or Injure The Skin

Don't Use a Razor

"Yes, there was a time when I could hardly bear to look at myself in the glass," said a well known society beauty. "I was hideous and I knew it and my friends knew it, even if they said nothing to me."

"I don't care whether it's just a few stray hairs or a full fledged mustache, hair on a woman's face will spoil her beauty. That's all there is to that. I know. Of course I tried the electric needle and all the other remedies I ever heard of. And, of course, the hair came back. It always will with such remedies. They don't really kill the hair. They just burn it off the surface and stimulate the roots. Sometimes I just couldn't bear to face anybody with that horrible growth on my face and arms. I was about to give up in despair, when some friend sent me a bottle of Elec-tro-la. I hadn't faith in the remedy before I used it, but it took just one treatment to convince me. The way that hair came off was a marvel and no matter how long I left the remedy on it would not burn or smart. That's the secret of its success. You can leave it on long enough to reach the roots and kill the hair and a cure with Elec-tro-la is a cure that lasts. See, my face is as soft and smooth as a little child's and it's been months since I cured myself. If you don't believe this, just try Elec-tro-la and see."

We want every reader of this paper who is troubled with superfluous hair, to prove this sure remedy just as thousands of others affected with objectionable hair have done. If you want a permanent, lasting cure, not merely temporary relief, Elec-tro-la is what you should use.

All that is necessary to get a free trial bottle is to just fill out the coupon and send to us with a two-cent stamp to help cover cost of mailing. The regular sized bottle is $1.00 and your money will be refunded if Elec-tro-la does not do all we claim. We don't ask you to take our word for what Elec-tro-la will do. Fill out the Trial Coupon and mail with a two-cent stamp today.

FREE TREATMENT

Fill in your name and address on dotted lines below and send it to Ko-Ree-Tiv Co., 5105 State street, Chicago, enclosing a two-cent stamp to help cover mailing, and we will send at once a free trial bottle that will show what Elec-tro-la will do for you. E5733

COLONEL M'COY NOT BADLY HURT

Later developments in the automobile accident in which Mrs. R. B. McCoy lost her life on Sunday show that Col. McCoy was not injured as badly as was at first feared.

Dr. C. M. Beebe was caught under the car and held under the water until released by Mr. McCoy and Mrs. Beebe, who succeeded in raising the car.

Harry Kurtzman's condition remains about the same and it is impossible to remove him to his home at present.

The funeral of Mrs. McCoy was held yesterday.

SCHOOL TO RESUME CORN CLASS HERE

According to agricultural experts this is the best time of the year to select corn seed for the next year's planting. The corn crop in this state has been fairly good this year and the raising of corn is being encouraged in Wisconsin, as it pays better returns to the farmer than most other crops. The first class in corn raising in this state was held last year at the La Crosse county agricultural school, and will be continued when the school again opens.

TOM LAVAKE AND FAMILY LEAVING

Well Known Citizen Expresses Regret at Having to Depart from His Friends

Mr. Thomas Lavake and family, consisting of his wife, son Harold, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Straub, leave tonight for their new home on the Pacific coast, where Mr. Lavake has business connections with Mr. J. O. Storey, formerly of this city. Mr. Lavake's headquarters for a few months will be at Eugene, Ore., but later he will be located at Portland.

Mr. Lavake has been in business in La Crosse for twenty-four years and has been eminently successful.

In conversation with a reporter today Mr. Lavake expressed a desire to thank the citizens of La Crosse for past treatment. "I am sorry to leave this city," said Mr. Lavake, "but it is a case of being able to better myself by moving to the coast and my duty to my family demands it."

"I have been exceptionally well treated in business by La Crosse people as the banks of the city will tell you. I have not amassed any fortune here but have cleared enough so that I am able to launch into big business in the west and keep a reserve. I go in with J. O. Storey, whom you all know as having left here some years ago and who has cleaned up about half a million dollars. I will be associated with him in a great many of his deals. Mr. Storey, as all know who have visited the coast, is one of the biggest men on the Pacific coast today. His business acumen and foresight are the wonder of the business world there. His interests include railroads, lumber companies, farm lands and diversified projects. To be associated with him means that success is assured."

"I shall always have a warm spot in my heart for La Crosse and thoroughly appreciate what La Crosse people have done for me. My deal with Mr. Storey when in the west on my last trip was closed so quickly that I have not had a chance to see all of the friends I would desire. To them for myself and family say good bye and extend best wishes."

Miss Anna Allemann of this city visited friends at Alma Tuesday.

This evening the conference of the officers and missionaries of the American Sunday School Union in Minnesota and Wisconsin will open in the First Congregational church and will continue until next Monday. Delegates will be in attendance from the two states and many interesting topics will be discussed. The purpose of the union is to assure a Bible in every home; to establish a Sunday school in every otherwise unreached community; to place every otherwise unreached child in a Sunday school and to secure Sabbath observance in every community.

Its methods are the employment of the union, Evangelical, Christian missionary. It exalts the word of God as the chief agency for saving men; it adds needy schools with good literature and by Gospel services and it maintains family visitation, seeks the lost sheep and feeds the lambs.

LEAVES A LOVE NOTE, AND SUICIDES

DENVER, Col., Sept. 15.—Jim: Why did you ever believe the falsehoods that were told about me? My ideal of true love is shattered and today I die because I do not care to live any longer. This is my last day at school and on earth. I have made all my arrangements. I am writing this between classes at school."

This was the note left by Arlona Stivers, a 16 year old high school girl, who is dead at her home today after having taken three ounces of carbolic acid.

The girl, after calmly planning to end her life, attended her classes at the North Denver High school, then went home and swallowed the poison.

The note left was addressed to James Sanford, Oklahoma City. It was found between the pages of one of her high school books.

It continued: "I shall be dead by my own hand before 5 o'clock today, Tuesday. Sep-

Blatz—Hello, alter kamerad. I see it with pleasure that you are on the top shelf again. When I seen you last I was worried about your outlook sure.

Blitz—Yes sree, and I was feeling as bad as I looked, too. But that Hammers Cholera and Diarrhoea Cure, what you told me to get at Beyschlag's Drug Store on 503 Main street, did the business. Ach such a remedy, such prompt action! Blatz, I was better the first day, and as you foresaid it, on the third day I was a well man. Say, why don't Beyschlag advertise it, he could help so many people with it?

Blatz—Blitz, that's the first real shining idea you developed in a long time. You have entirely right, it should be better known by the people. It would save them a good deal of unpleasantness, pain and suffering. I'll talk to him about that next time I see him!

THOMPSON LEADS AIKEN

Desire of People on Office
which May Be Contested
Is Plain in Totals of County Vote

According to members of the canvassing board no republican ballots were found to have been thrown out because the name of a democrat had been written across them.

Frank Aiken, who may run independently for register of deeds, contends that he has information to the effect that 48 votes were thrown out in the town of Holland because a democrat's name had been written in. The canvassing board claims the democrat was credited with so many votes, as a republican candidate but that the remainder of the ballot was allowed to stand. According to the canvass but eleven ballots in the town of Holland were so marked.

With the exception of the social democratic and prohibition the La Crosse county canvassing board today completed the official count of the primary vote in La Crosse county.

The results of the republican state officers vote appeared in The Tribune last night.

The figures verify the results as printed in the La Crosse Tribune the day after the primaries and shows a complete victory for the progressives both for county and state offices.

Woodhouse Close

Russell D. Smith defeated Samuel Woodhouse for the nomination for clerk of the court on the republican ticket by but 56 votes. Smith polled 1,625 votes in the county while Woodhouse had 1,569 to his credit.

In the fight for register of deeds republican nomination A. E. Thompson defeated Frank Aiken, present holder of the office, by 118 votes, he getting 1,632 to Aiken's 1,514.

In the race for the sheriff nomination E. H. Derr led his nearest competitor, MacDonald, by 294. The vote for the republican sheriff nomination was as follows:

Derr, 874.
Bradley, 645.
Marshall, 270.
MacDonald, 580.
Moore, 366.
Wright, 537.

Freehoff won out over Ole Lunde for the nomination for county treasurer by 80 votes, getting 1,565 to Lunde's 1,485.

The only fight on the democratic county ticket was between Chris Burns and Michael McHugh for sheriff. Burns, according to the official canvass, was the choice of the democrats by 587 votes. Burns tallied 893 votes to McHugh's 306.

Weisse carried La Crosse county for the democratic nomination for U. S. senator over Burt Williams by 369 votes. His total was 729, while Williams' was 360.

Callahan is the La Crosse county choice for democratic secretary of state by just 100 votes. His total was 582.

tain republicans, the president felt it to be his duty to the party and the country to withhold federal patronage from certain senators and congressmen who seemed to be in opposition to the administration's efforts to carry out the promises of the party platform.

"That attitude, however, ended with the primary elections and the nominating conventions which have now been held and in which the voters had opportunity to declare themselves. The people have spoken and as the party faces the fall election, the question must be settled by republicans of every shade of opinion, whether the differences of the last session shall be perpetuated or shall be forgotten.

"He recognizes the danger that in certain cases that expressions of feeling were so intense as to make it difficult in some instances for factions to come together and work loyally for the party but as he stated in his letter to the republican congressional committee, he believes it can be done and should be done. The president is confident that you will yourself meet your local and state situation in this spirit and that you will write to your friends and ask them to do so likewise.

Realizes His Mistake

"The president feels that the value of the federal patronage has been greatly exaggerated and that the refusal to grant it has probably been more useful to the men affected than the appointment would have been. In the preliminary skirmishes in certain states like Wisconsin and elsewhere he was willing in the interests of what the leaders believed would lead to party success, to make certain discriminations; but the president has concluded that it is his duty now to treat all republican congressmen and senators alike without any distinction. He will now follow the usual rule in the republican congressional district and state

EDWARD L. HOGAN IS FOUND GUILTY

Edward L. Hogan was this afternoon found guilty of robbing Chris Peterson last April in the alley back of the Batavian National bank. The case went to trial yesterday afternoon and this morning it went to jury.

Taft Bids to Lead

A score or more insurgents lost their share of federal patronage during the last session of congress. Senators La Follette, Bristow and Cummins were among the most conspicuous of these but there were a dozen or more representatives, who, at various times fought in vain for the privilege of naming constituents for government jobs.

To those who have viewed the growing breach between the two factions of the party President Taft's letter today is regarded as a bid for leadership of the new "progressive republicanism."

It is a plan to reunite the party before the November elections that give promise of a further revolutionary progress. And to many observers it is believed to sound the death knell of the "stand-pat" idea.

Won't Oppose Teddy

President Taft has reached the conclusion that Theodore Roosevelt is laying his plans to be the next president of the United States. He is determined that so far as the present incumbent of the White House is concerned, Col. Roosevelt shall have a clear field. Mr. Taft does not want another term.

While the above is not an authorized statement from President Taft, it comes from a source close enough to the president to have a distinct news value. The present attitude of President Taft has been made apparent during the past few days by the efforts of his friends to stir him into activity against the present movement of Col. Roosevelt.

It can be stated authoritatively that President Taft will make no public statement or no offensive move against Col. Roosevelt and the latter's projects, no matter what tactics may be adopted by the latter.

"Dignified Silence"

"Dignified silence" sums up both the defensive and offensive measures that will be employed by the president. He has made this known in no uncertain terms to those of his friends, who during the past few days, have repeatedly urged him to "go after" his predecessor. The president's advisors believe that the attitude adopted by Col. Roosevelt on his recent western tour was especially designed to draw fire from the chief executive. Self-appointed scouts are reporting to the administration forces on Col. Roosevelt's western invasion but President Taft has made it clear that he regards the words of his predecessor more in sorrow than in anger.

Taft Hasn't Got the Crowd

It is claimed here that practically all of the reforms for which Col. Roosevelt asks have either been undertaken already by President Taft or form a part of the legislative program on which he is working for the coming session of congress.

It is a deep guarded mystery why the ideas when propounded by the president go so unnoticed, only to be received with hurrahs and unbounded enthusiasm when enunciated by Roosevelt.

A number of the president's advisors still urging upon him the fact that his administration is not being well advertised and that the Crane-Norton idea of keeping out of print is not a success. They have urged him to learn to "use" the newspapers and to resort to the tactics which have enabled Col. Roosevelt to monopolize more first page newspaper space than any other character in the world's history.

Beveridge Laughs Heartily

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 15.—As Senator Beveridge, who delivered an address at the convention of the Indiana State Bankers' association today, was leaving the theater where he spoke this afternoon, he was shown the dispatches from Beverly regarding President Taft's new policy in dealing out patronage to insurgents and regulars alike. As Beveridge sat alone in an automobile waiting for a friend, he read the dispatch, wrinkled his brow, then leaned back, laughing heartily.

LAST DEMOCRATIC SENATOR OF MAINE

Frank Winter Has Interesting Record Showing
when Bradbury was Elected

Since the sweeping democratic victory in Maine, Frank Winter has resurrected an interesting diary, which was kept by his father, Elisha Winter, who was then a law student in Augusta, Me. The diary shows that on June 9, 1850, a vote was taken for United States senator in the legislature of that state and on that day, the ballot stood as follows: Hamlin, 62; Evans, 31; Fessenden, 23; J. Anderson, 24; Paine, 1; Blank, 1. Total, 143.

The keeping of the diary by Mr. Winter ceased on that day, but for weeks afterward the contest dragged along until finally the pro-slavery democrats and Whigs combined against Hamlin, who was still an anti-slavery democrat, and elected James Ware Bradbury, a slavery democrat, who was the last democratic senator elected in the state of Maine.

Afterward Hamlin deserted the democratic party and became a republican and was elected, as vice president of the United States.

WILL PLEAD GUILTY, SAY THE OFFICERS

James Brooks, who is charged with robbing the Northwestern depot at Trempealeau a short time ago, will, it is claimed by the authorities, plead guilty at Whitehall next week. It is claimed that the change of plea has been brought about from the fact that the records at Waupun show that he has once before served a term in state's prison under the name of Robert E. Burns for robbing a depot at Portage.

STUDYING HENS PROVES SUCCESS

Poultry Association Holds
First of a Series of Instructive Meetings

The first of a series of meetings for the purpose of studying poultry relative to the breeding and exhibiting of the various breeds in the standard, was held last evening at the Liesenfeld printing office and it proved to be the most successful gathering of poultrymen ever held in La Crosse. Rhode Island Reds were taken as the subject for study and all the essential points regarding the mating and exhibition of this variety were explained. O. W. Naas, one of the oldest breeders of the Reds in the city, spoke upon the subject and pointed out some of the defects that are apt to crop out in a flock of that variety. A number of live specimens were taken to the meeting as models to work upon.

Not only was the meeting a success in regard to its educational features, but it was an interesting one in other ways. It was announced that the premium list is well under way and that it will be ready for distribution by November 1. The Modern Woodmen of America have offered a splendid silver cup to be competed for and a long list of other special prizes have been offered by merchants and citizens generally. Eight new members were taken in and it is expected that before the show is held in December that the membership of the association will reach the 200 mark. From all indications the coming show will be one of the largest ever held in La Crosse.

The next meeting of the association will be held in two weeks when Wyandottes will be the subject. Several of the varieties of Wyandottes will be exhibited at the meeting and the points explained.

Mr. Esch in the republican primary?" Judge Baldwin was asked by a Tribune reporter today.

"For two reasons," said the judge. "In the first place it was expected that Mr. Esch would come out as a progressive. His North side speech was a disappointment as a declaration of his position, but it came too late to permit me to enter the primary. In the second place, I am acting upon the advice of friends who have urged me to make the run. A majority of them did not do so until it was too late for me to enter the republican primary. When the conviction came to me that I ought to seek this election, I did the only thing that was possible; I came out as an independent progressive republican candidate for the office."

Look Into Future

One of the possibilities that is being talked over is that Judge Baldwin's attempt may prove the entering wedge for an opposition candidacy two years hence. Mr. Esch's future course may do much to determine this matter. There is little serious thought that Judge Baldwin can defeat him, and he will probably have the capital offered by another term in congress as an asset in any fight that may be made against him in the future.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO EMBEZZLEMENT

Fred Oswald was arraigned before Judge Brindley this afternoon charged with embezzling $14 from Felix Lemieux by whom he was employed as a collector. Oswald pleaded not guilty and the hearing was adjourned for one week ball being fixed at $200.

GRAY FOR GOVERNOR.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 15.—Jas. A. Gray, former mayor of Minneapolis, and a well known Minneapolis newspaper man, was this afternoon named by the democratic state central committee as its candidate for governor.

FREAR ENTERS WAR ON JAMES TAWNEY

Secretary of State James Frear has responded to the appeal of Minnesota First district progressives and will enter the congressional fight in that district to defeat James Tawney, foe of Roosevelt and upholder of Cannonism.

The Wisconsin secretary of state will reply to Tawney's Rochester speech and is booked to follow the standpatner into that place. He will address progressive republicans in Rochester Saturday night.

Accompanying Secretary Frear will be Attorney James Mahan, St. Paul, considered one of the ablest lawyers in the northwest.

Senator Robert M. La Follette will go to Rochester, some time this week to consult with the famous Dr. Mayo. While there he will be asked to address a meeting favoring the candidacy of Sydney Anderson, or if his health will not permit of this, he will in all probability furnish the campaign committee with a statement endorsing Anderson and opposing Tawney.

What a busy man is compelled to neglect would keep a lazy man employed.

SAYS DEMOCRATS WILL RULE HOUSE

Former Republican Whip
Predicts Republicans
Cannot Get Together
in Elections

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—That the next congress will be democratic by at least thirty, is the opinion of Congressman James D. Watson, former republican whip in the house. He has been campaigning for republican congressional candidates through eleven states this year and summed up the situation he encountered as "bad."

"The republican party is confronted with a situation that is acute," he said. "The eyes of the whole country are turned on New York and the temporary chairmanship fight between Sherman and Roosevelt. My opinion is that anything short of an overwhelming victory for Roosevelt is a defeat for him. A close vote will be a bad thing for both sides."

People are Dissatisfied

"We are losing republican congressmen all the time from Maine to California. In all states I have visited there is dissatisfaction and thousands regard the best way to express it is to vote the democratic ticket. Out in Indiana, we have differences but have reached the conclusion we ought to vote alike and the republicans ought to carry the state."

T. R. Emphasized the Split

"As for Roosevelt, I honestly do not believe he has made a single new insurgent for all his rhetoric. But what he has done has been to intensify the feeling of those who were insurgents at heart and to emphasize the split in the party. He has stiffened the backbone of the man who had a tendency to come back into the field but who now grits his teeth and says he won't come back. That is about what Roosevelt has done for the republican party. The need of the hour is for all republicans to get together, but I have serious doubts that we can."

be turned by the government's sleuths to hang the theft on me," said Fitzgerald. "When I was arrested two years ago the case was thrown out of court because of a lack of evidence. They had nothing then on which to connect me with the theft and they have nothing more today."

Fitzgerald himself pays unconscious tribute to the work of the government secret service and the tireless pursuit by the government.

Tireless Sleuths

"For months I saw two men frequently hanging about my house and attempting to get in," said Fitzgerald. "They would come to the door, draw out a bullseye lantern and flash the light through any opening they could find. Many times the light from these lanterns was even flashed through a window and across my body as I lay in bed."

"I was never alone. A man whom I knew to be a secret service agent would sit opposite me when I had my meals down town. Another would follow me when I went to anything. I knew they followed me everywhere but my feelings were not those of a man who is guilty and thinks he is being watched, but of a man dogged from morning until night and who not only sees but feels the presence of his pursuers constantly."

District Attorney Sims declared that the secret service men had obtained enough circumstantial evidence against the former teller to make his conviction a certainty.

Have the Evidence

"From the day after the $173,000 disappeared from the subtreasury, Special Agent Eberstein and his men have been investigating the theft," said Sims. "They seldom make an arrest unless they have the evidence."

The prosecutor and his assistants were secretive as to the direct evidence against Fitzgerald and had not drawn actively into the case until the warrant was applied for yesterday.

In addition to the evidence which the detectives gathered it is believed Fitzgerald had papers and documents in his possession when arrested that will aid the prosecution. Both the district attorney and the secret service men refused to comment on the search made of the arrested man's clothing.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE 7th DISTRICT

I believe that the people of this district want a progressive republican to represent them in congress.

I shall file nomination papers and make the run as a progressive republican.

Personally I have a high regard for Mr. Esch, but for the past ten years he has refused to get into the fight for the progressive movement in this state. I have been with the movement from the beginning and I believe that the refusal of Mr. Esch to aid this movement misrepresents the sentiments of the people of this district. A definite stand must be taken and the voters will decide.

KELLOGG LIKELY TO GET PLACE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 15.—The report that Frank B. Kellogg, famous "trust buster," may succeed the late Lloyd W. Bowers as solicitor general is given serious consideration at the department of justice. Kellogg conducted the original action against the Standard Oil company, and this winter will be conducting the dissolution suit against the Rockefeller concern, which is now in the United States supreme court. It is pointed out that probably no man is better prepared to undertake this task.

W. S. Kenyon, assistant to the attorney general, who is now in charge of the cases against the beef trust in Chicago, also is prominently mentioned for the place, as are William J. Hughes, for twenty-five years in the solicitor's office, and Henry L. Stimson, former United States attorney for the southern district of New York, who has a trust busting record of his own.

FEAR KAISER MAY RUN INTO DANGER

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—An increasing number of cholera cases in the vicinity of Archduke Ferdinand's estate at Belye is today causing the government officials considerable alarm for the safety of Emperor William of Germany, who will visit the estate next week for a few days' shooting.

The Kaiser has been warned that the locality is infected and advised that it might be well to postpone his visit, but he is determined to keep the engagement. The Kaiser will go to Belye in an automobile.

MISS WENZEL IS NOW A BRIDE

The marriage of Miss Minnie Wenzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Wenzel, and Phillip A. Peterson of this city took place yesterday in Minneapolis at the home of Mrs. J. A. Farrell, 2334 Fourth avenue south. They will be at home after Nov. 1 at 308 South Sixth street, in the Newburg flats.

IF JOHNSON IS KILLED IN RACE?

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—There is yet hope for the white race in pugilism. Jeffries can't come back, it is true, Kaufman is counted by many as a lemon, and Lang a quince but still there is hope for Jack Johnson, the giant negro champion, is billed for an automobile race against Barney Oldfield, to take place at the Empire City track the latter part of September. Johnson, in addition to being the champion pugilist, holds the world's record for number of arrests for speeding his automobile. He is a reckless driver and although no one is hoping that his race against Oldfield will end disastrously, some are already figuring on who will assume the championship mantle should something go wrong with Jack and his machine.

SKIN DISEASES HUMORS IN THE BLOOD

Nature has made ample provision in the moisture and sunshine of the air for the outward protection and healthy condition of the skin. But the more important work of nourishing the cuticle has been left to an inward source—the blood. It is from the circulation that the pores and glands receive their stimulus, and the fibrous tissues are all preserved in a healthful state because of constant nutriment supplied by the blood. It is only when the circulation becomes infected with humors or acids that we are troubled with skin affections. The humors producing these troubles are carried through the circulation direct to the skin, and their irritating or inflammatory effect remains until the blood is cleansed. S. S. S. cures Skin Diseases, because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It goes into the circulation and REMOVES the acids and humors which are causing the trouble. builds up the weak, acrid blood, and completely cures Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, pimples, rashes, and all eruptions of the skin. When S. S. S. has driven out the humors every symptom passes away, the skin is again nourished with cooling, healthful blood, natural evaporation is renewed, and the skin becomes soft and smooth. 'Time's Flight Turned Backward' SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss
COUNTY OF MONROE }
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

Sworn to before me this 15th day of July, 1938.
